MUST ABANDON ITS SUBMARINE WARFARE

Germany Will be Compelled to Change U-Boat Policy or United States Will Sever Diplomatic Relations.

WILSON SPEAKS

President Tells Congress There is no Other Alternative For This Government

INDICTS GERMANS SEVERELY

Outlines Campaign of Imperial Government From Its Inception in February, 1915

HOW HE HAS BEEN CAUTIOUS

Asserts Less And Less Restraint Has Been Shown by Germans as Months go By.

BULLETIN

(By United Press.)

Washington April 19.—The United States demands practically the end of submarine warfare by Germany in the note sent by President Wilson, it was learned this afternoon.

The elimination of all submarine warfare except against actual battleships is necessary, it was pointed out by a high authority, because Germany can not conduct such warfare with her present methods.

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 19.—"Unless the Imperial German government should now immediately declare and effect an abandonment of its present method of warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels, this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the government of the German empire all together."

This declaration was made by President Wilson to congress this afternoon at the climax of a message in which he indicted in severest terms the German submarine campaign.

"This decision I have arrived at," the president added, "with the keenest regret; the possibility of the action contemplated I am sure all thoughtful Americans look forward to with unaffected reluctance."

The president made no request of congress. He simply fulfilled a promise that he would advise congress in case he took action such as he is reported today having taken.

The president's message reviewed broadly the history of submarine warfare from its beginning in February, 1915 when the German government announced the creation of a war zone about the British Isles, up to the present time. He told of the original protest of the United States government that such a policy could not be pursued without "the practical certainty of gross and palpable violation of the law of nations, particularly if submarine craft were to be employed."

How the German government, over the protest of our government, at once proceeded to carry out its announced policy, was told by the president, though it gave assurances it would take every possible precaution to respect the rights of neutrals and safeguard the lives of non-combatants.

"In pursuance of the policy of submarine warfare against commerce of its adversaries thus announced and entered upon by the Imperial German government, the commanders of German under-sea vessels have attacked merchant ships with greater and greater activity—wherever they could encounter them, in a way that has grown more and more ruthless, more and more indiscriminate as the months have gone by, less and less observance of restraint of any kind," said the president.

Describing the result of submarine warfare, the president said:

"Tragedy has followed tragedy on the sea with such fashion, with such attendant circumstances as to make it grossly evident that war of such a sort. Warfare if it be, can not be carried on without the most palpable violation of the dictates alike of right and humanity."

The president then told of the latest German order authorizing submarine commanders to sink all armed vessels, and how even unarmed merchant vessels and liners have been sunk since then.

The president then said that the sinking of the Channel steamer Sussex was "one of the most shocking instances of this method of warfare." "It must stand forth," he said, "as the sinking of the steamer Lusitania did, as so singularly tragical and unjustifiable as to constitute a truly terrible example of the inhumanity of submarine warfare as the commanders of German vessels have for the past twelve months been conducting it."

If this instance stood alone, the president said, some explanation might be sought or entertained," but unhappily it does not stand alone."

"The government of the United States has been very patient," he said. "At every stage of this distressing experience of tragedy after tragedy in which its own citizens were involved, it has sought to be restrained from any extreme course of action or of protest by a thoughtful consideration of the extraordinary circumstances of this unprecedented war and actuated in all that it has, of course, accepted the successive explanation and assurances of the Imperial German government as given in sincerity and good faith and has hoped even against hope that it would prove to be possible for the German government so to order and control the acts of its naval commanders as to square its policy with the principles of humanity as embodied in the laws of nations.

"It has been willing to wait until the significance of the acts become absolutely unmistakable and susceptible of but one interpretation. That point has now unhappily been reached. The facts are susceptible of but one interpretation. The Imperial German government has been unable to put any limit of restraint upon its warfare against either freight or passenger ships. It has become painfully evident that the position that this government took at the outset, is inevitable, namely that the use of submarines for the destruction of enemies' commerce is**"

How the German government, over the protest of our government, at once proceeded to carry out its announced policy, was told by the president, though it gave assurances it would take every possible precaution to respect the rights of neutrals and

MANN SAYS WILSON TRIES TO MAKE WAR

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 19.—Bitter comment fell from the lips of Republican Leader Mann, following the president's submarine address to congress.

"It is a hypocritical speech probably for campaign purposes," he said. "The president has been pro-English all during the controversy. I said at the time of the LeMore resolution that the president wanted us to get into war with Germany and I say the same thing now."

Incompatible with the principles of humanity."

The president then delivered his ultimatum as quoted.

Chairman Stone and Senator Lodge of the senate foreign relations committee and Chairman Flood and Representative Cooper of the house foreign affairs committee heard from the president what he intended to say to congress this afternoon and made known their approval.

TO MAKE THE NOTE PUBLIC

Secretary Lansing Will Give Out Text of German Message.

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 19.—Secretary Lansing decided this afternoon to give out the president's note to Germany immediately. It is expected to be made public before 4 o'clock this afternoon.

SCOTT TO LEAVE FOR THE BORDER

Chief of Staff Will Consult With Funston and Canvass Mexican Situation.

IS MADE AT BAKER'S REQUEST

BULLETIN.

(By United Press.)

Mexico City, Mexico, April 19.—An official dispatch received here this afternoon said the exhumation of the body supposed to be Villa's is progressing and that identification is momentarily expected.

(By United Press.) Washington, April 19.—Chief of Staff Scott will leave tonight for San Antonio to spend several days with General Funston in canvassing the Mexican situation.

Scott's trip is at Secretary Baker's request. It is made solely for the purpose of getting as accurate information as possible for the use of the department, said Baker.

"General Funston remains in full charge of the affairs of his department including the expedition into Mexico. He has the full confidence of the department and his disposition have the department's approval," said Baker.

100 VISITORS AT FIRST MEET

Many More Guests Are Expected for Banquet Tonight, Closing Feature of Gathering.

Organization is Keynote of Afternoon Session When Two Men Address Meeting.

Probably one hundred visiting merchants were in attendance for the opening session of the district meeting of business men this afternoon in the court house assembly room. The banquet, the closing feature of the meeting is expected to be attended by at least 300 men. All of the cities in the district were represented at the meeting.

The opening address was made by Samuel L. Trabue, who welcomed the visitors to the city. A. Bogue, secretary of the association credit bureau, delivered an address on "Necessity of Organization." Mr. Bogue stated that in every line of business it was organization that counted and declared that the merchants were about the last to be organized.

He outlined a plan of the mail order houses to secure legislation for a flat rate parcel post law and urged the merchants to fight this action. Following an address by Roy Kainouse of Greensburg, a business session was held and committees were appointed.

Indications at noon were that the expectations of local business men would be fulfilled. The ideal weather made it fine for motoring and many of the visitors were expected to come in automobiles.

Arrangements have been made to seat 250 at the banquet tonight at the First Presbyterian church. Any overflow will have to be taken care of in some way not yet arranged. A chicken dinner is promised the banqueters, and those who have attended banquets served by the women of the First Presbyterian church know that it will be good as the best.

A. L. Gary will preside at toastmaster and Fred Leiter, president of the Connersville Business Men's Credit Exchange, will deliver the first toast on the subject, "Credits and Collections." Albert Brister of Indianapolis will speak on "Legislation." The meeting will close with the report of the committee appointed this afternoon, a general discussion and the singing of "America."

MARKET BREAKS BADLY

War Stocks Suffer Most From the Rumors of War With Germany.

(By United Press.)

New York, April 19.—The stock markets broke badly today on reports from Washington that a break between the United States and Germany is imminent. The war stocks recorded the biggest losses.

Crucible steel opened at 82, off three and five-eights and immediately dropped one-half lower. Baldwin locomotives declined two points on the first trade and other munition shares suffered similar losses.

JURY WILL GET CASE TONIGHT

State Introduces Evidence in Cleve-enger Case to Offset Defense Character Witnesses.

CLEVENER TELLS STORY

Mrs. Driver, Back on Stand, Says Mrs. Clevenger Declared They Wouldn't Bother Mart.

The "blind tiger" case against Mart Clevenger will not go to the jury before this evening. The state began introducing evidence in rebuttal this afternoon when the defense rested. Most of the witnesses this afternoon were character witnesses and tended to offset the character witnesses introduced by the defense.

A large number of local men testified that Clevenger's reputation was good. About an equal number of men testified for the state that his character was bad, especially during the past two years. The case would have ended today had not the defense gone into the reputation of Clevenger.

Mrs. Anna Driver, the star witness for the state yesterday, was called to the stand today to testify regarding a conversation she had with Mrs. Clevenger. She said that she warned Mrs. Clevenger against the handling of intoxicating liquor and received the reply that "they wouldn't do anything with Mart and he was not afraid."

Mrs. Driver again showed a dislike to the defense attorney. Mr. Duncan, in an effort to discredit the witness, asked her if she did not drink liquor.

"Don't you tell me I drink liquor," yelled Mrs. Driver as she got about half way out of the witness chair and shook her fist at the attorney.

Mrs. Clevenger was on the stand this morning and told practically the same story as her husband, excepting the incident wherein Al Simms was brought into the case. Clevenger stated that in the past two years only two barrels of beer had been at their home and that one of these was a partnership affair with Al Simms. Mrs. Clevenger testified that Simms came there and took his half of the barrel away with him while Mart stated that Simms came there and drank his beer so that Mrs. Simms would not know he was drinking.

Mrs. Clevenger admitted that on several occasions Mart brought home small quantities of beer from Indianapolis, but that the beer was consumed by the family. Clevenger did not mention this in his testimony. At first Mrs. Clevenger stated that the two barrels of beer were all the intoxicants ever in the house during the past two years, but on cross-examination told about the beer being brought home from Indianapolis. Mrs. Clevenger said that she did not like beer at first but learned to like it and got so she could drink one bottle a day without feeling any ill effects.

She denied ever "dishing out the stuff" to any of the witnesses that testified for the state or of ever seeing Mart selling any. Some of the witnesses she did not know and declared that they never visited her home. Mrs. Clevenger said the doctor advised her to drink beer. She said that on the day Greely Perkins was alleged to have come to their home she did not see him and denied that he had ever purchased any "booze" there. At the time Perkins said he went there, on Sunday Feb. 20, 1916, Mrs. Clevenger was ill in bed and admitted on cross-examination

ALLEGES FRAUD IN DEEDING LAND

Milton Tompkins of Milroy Files Complaint to Restore Title to Seven Acres

DAUGHTER IS DEFENDANT

Declares he Has no Recollection of Signing Deed—Only Owned a Third Interest

Alleging that the deed to a seven-acre tract of land in Milroy was obtained through fraud, Milton (Pat) Tompkins filed suit in the circuit court today against Arthur L. Jenner and Sally Jenner, asking that the deed be set aside and the title restored to his name. Mrs. Jenner is a daughter of Mr. Tompkins.

The complaint is sensational in that it alleges the deed as recorded pretends to convey the entire seven acres while in fact Mr. Tompkins only owned a one-third interest in the real estate in question. The allegation is also made that he never received a cent of the $400 purported to be the purchase price.

The complaint states that on April 7, 1915 the defendants fraudulently procured the deed to the seven acres of land in one of the recent additions to Milroy. It is alleged that at the time Mr. Tompkins was sick and had been under the care of a physician for several months.

It is alleged that on April 7, 1915 the defendants induced the plaintiff to accompany them in their automobile for a pretended ride and that instead of taking the promised ride they brought him to Rushville and took him to an attorney's office where there was a notary public and that the deed was executed.

Tompkins states that he has no remembrance of signing the deed or of being in the notary's office. It is pointed out that the deed pretends to convey all of the real estate, while in fact the plaintiff was the owner of only one-third of it.

It is also claimed in the complaint that the defendants paid $400 for the land, but the plaintiff never received a cent. The court is asked to set aside the deed and to restore the title to Mr. Tompkins. T. M. Green represents Mr. Tompkins.

An investigation in the recorder's office shows that the deed was acknowledged by Wallace Morgan, as a notary of public. The deed was recorded two days after the property was conveyed to the defendants in the suit.

Does Newspaper Advertising Pay?

A large paint manufacturer asked this question of retailers throughout the country:

NO. 2 SAID:

"Your advertisement should show a customer definite articles that you have that fills a need he has and should be in such a spirit that back of your words he will know there is the stuff to make good what you say. That's half the battle. Get one article that you sell to be commonly spoken of throughout your country as the very highest quality for any specific purpose; or get a number of articles you thus handle to be common household words throughout your section as standing for satisfaction and utility, and you win your battle for trade."

"Write your advertisements with this purpose in view and we cannot see why they will not be effective.

MANGLING A WORD.

Why "Comptroller" Is Used Instead of the Correct "Controller."

It is an old story, many times told, that the scriveners centuries ago, ignorant of Latin, but having heard that in French "compteur" means to count and assuming that as the controller has to do with money he must of course, count money, wedged the false and perverting letter "p" with an "m" before it into a perfectly good and correctly formed word.

In late Latin the word is "contrarotulator." The keeper of the king's rolls, the payroll and other accounts, was the "rotulator." To guard against the possible dishonesty of that official the king appointed an auditor to check up his accounts and called him the "contrarotulator"—that is, the counter roll keeper. From "contrarotulator" the word has come into modern languages, always without the offending "p."

In French, Spanish, Italian, German and Russian we have the word "control," meaning the keeping or auditing of accounts, and the title of the officer in those languages is spelled always without the "m" and the "p." When our commissioners to the Paris peace conference in 1898 used the word "control," meaning political control of the Philippines, the Spanish commissioners were puzzled; they thought our representatives were speaking of matters of finance.

But the word "comptroller," with its vicious spelling and implication of a false etymology, is imbedded in the federal statutes and in the constitution of the state of New York. All the king's oxen could not pull it out against the Boeotian indifference and inertia of those who, if they would, might correct the blunder.—New York Times.

BASQUES OF THE PYRENEES.

Those on the Spanish Slopes Are the Pure Aborigines of Europe.

You are in the habit of thinking of the inhabitants of France as "French" and the inhabitants of Spain as "Spanish." Did you happen to read a learned disquisition on the shape of the skulls of people living on the two slopes of the Pyrenees, together with the announcement that, contrary to the belief of scientists, the Basques are not all of the same origin? And then did you ask, "Who are the Basques?" Primarily they are the people who gave to the rest of the world a curious kind of garment for women, but they are far more interesting to the student of anthropology and the historical development of language than they are to the designers of women's clothes.

There was a time before the present generation of scientists got to work on the problem when the Basques, both in Spain and in France, were recognized as the last remnant of the original occupants of Europe, the people who were driven into this backwater of civilization by the onrush of the Celts. The Celts were in their turn driven westward and into such out-of-the-way corners as they could hold, so that they are now represented by certain strains in Spain, by the Bretons in France, the Irish, Scotch, Welsh, Cornish and Manx in the British Isles and by a substratum of the Bohemians and the Galicians. Those who preceded them and who managed to cling to the mountain strongholds of the Pyrenees are remotely related to the Finns in another remote backwater. The ones on the Spanish slopes are the pure aborigines of Europe.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A polite young man called upon another young man, unfortunately not at that time at home. So the first young man left a note for the second young man saying that he was "sorry to have found him out." The second young man in reply wrote the first young man a long and very painful letter, in which he declared that he had always tried to do the best he could and had always meant to be fair to everybody.—New York Post.

The Appian Way.

The famous Appian way, mentioned by almost every Roman writer, connected the Eternal City with all parts of south Italy. For many miles from Rome the space on each side was filled with sepulchers, many of them of persons distinguished in history. To have a sepulcher on the Appian way was equivalent to being buried in Greenwood, in New York, or Pere Lachaise, in Paris.

CAN'T MEASURE THEM SAME WAY

Whititt Declares Judas And Gang Were Wrong in Comparing Spiritual With Temporal

BETRAYAL IS DISCUSSED

Asserts Belief That One Who Betrayed Christ Selected Because of Good Qualities

"Judas and his gang were wrong," said the Rev. W. M. Whitsitt of St. Paul's M. E. Church at the Passion Week services at the First Baptist church last night. "You can't measure spiritual things and temporal things the same way."

The minister drew a likeness between Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold and contrasted Judas and Mary, who poured the precious ointment on Jesus' feet and was reprimanded by Judas for such waste. He revealed the salient points of similarity between Judas and Arnold and the deep contrast between the characters of Judas and Mary, taking practical lessons for the present day from each.

Tonight's service will be at the St. Paul's M. E. church and the Rev. C. M. Yocom will preach on the subject, "The Denial."

The Rev. Mr. Whitsitt's subject was, "The Betrayal." He said the question had arisen in the minds of most people, why did Jesus select such a man to be one of his twelve disciples? It is understood that Jesus knew about Judas, he said, but whether He knew from the first or not, He at least did know before the event occurred that one of the twelve would betray Him. The pastor said in all probability Jesus had Judas in mind.

"Judas had his good qualities, he continued "and I suppose he was selected because of them. I suppose he was a good financier. The church then as now needed men who knew how to get money and how to use money. He probably was selected for that reason."

"Again, I think Jesus wanted to give Judas a chance just as he gives every man a chance. Here was an opportunity for him to be changed, but he lost his opportunity. This is one of the sad things in his case."

"Again, I think Jesus was hunting for disciples just as he is hunting for them today. I believe Jesus would use better people today if he could get them. Some of you people may have thought that of us preachers. We must have men and women to do the work. And what I say I do not mean as any reflection on those who are working in the church now. Many churches are compelled to use laymen in the pulpits but God is blessing them. The church evidently has back of it Almighty God because if we gave no more concentrated thought to our business than some of us do to our church, we would not stay in business long. If the church were all human, it would have gone to the wall long ago, but it is divine."

"Again, I suppose you have asked often what led to the betrayal. I doubt if any of the disciples had a proper conception until after He was gone. Judas held the money bag and counted and figured until he thought there was nothing to the church but statistics. There is danger in statistics. Today there is danger of mammonism in the church."

"Judas was the only disciple who was not a Galilean. He was different and there may have been things said against him that drove him from Christ."

"Perhaps there was a little pride in the heart of Judas. There was always that consciousness that Jesus knew Him as He looked into his heart. I am afraid that Judas took everything that the Master said as against him and that that drove him away from Jesus. There is no neutral ground. Christianity will either draw men to it or drive them away from it."

"There were two spirits in Judas. There is a possibility of two sides to every person—a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Here is a man who is outwardly with Jesus Christ but at

PARCEL POST IS MAKING BIG STRIDE

Comparison Between Count This Month And One in October Shows Rapid Gains.

681 MORE PIECES DELIVERED

According to figures on a fifteen day parcel post count at the Rushville postoffice, completed Monday but which was not announced until today, the parcel post business is making rapid strides. A comparison on the present count with one of similar length last October is made.

The count was on all parcel post received to be dispatched and delivered from the office by all classes of carriers. The total number dispatched the fifteen days this month was 1007 as compared to 932 received to be dispatched the first fifteen days of last October, a gain of 75. The total number delivered in the period just closed was 2815 as compared to 2134 last October, a gain of 681 pieces.

Of the number delivered the first half of this month, 339 were to postoffice box patrons, 383 by city carriers, 1024 by rural route, 1047 by special parcel post carrier in the city and 22 by special delivery.

heart is against Him. The two most hated characters in history are Judas Iscariot, who betrayed his Christ, and Benedict Arnold, who betrayed his country. They are very much alike. Both worked their way in the affections—one of Jesus and the other of George Washington, only to betray them."

The Mystic will show a four act feature "The Truth About Helen" for the program tonight. Robert Conness and Grace Williams are featured. It is said to be a thrilling drama and tells a novel story. Tomorrow matinee and night the two act Biograph drama "The Chief Inspector" will be shown.

The Princess offers the sixth episode of "The Strange Case of Mary Page" for the first picture tonight. The second picture is a thrilling railway drama "The Broken Wire," Helen Gibson is featured in this one. The last is a comedy entitled "Freddy's Last Bean." Friday matinee and night Mary Pickford will be seen in the feature picture "Fanchon the Cricket." Fanchon is a little elf-child, and the grand-daughter of a reputed witch, who suffers for her ancient relatives unpopular reputation and from her own mischievous nature, which constantly leads her into committing wild pranks. Fanchon falls in love with Landry, son of a rich merchant. It is a beautiful story and the acting is said to be superb.

THE MYSTERIOUS EAGLE.

On the broad top of a stony, rain gullied hill in middle Georgia there lies a very large eagle, concerning which conflicting stories are told. The one point that seems to be certain is that the Indians left the eagle as a legacy to the state. A hundred years from now it will probably be found lying on its back, with outspread wings and tail, even as it lies today. For it is made of quartz rocks so cunningly placed that it would require a pick in a strong man's hands to dislodge any one of them. The rocks lap and overlap in such a manner as to represent feathers. No cement holds them in position, and the stones vary in size, weighing from a half pound to three or four pounds. The image rests on a very firm foundation, for the stonework extends several feet into the ground.

Once, perhaps twice, treasure seeking vandals dug into the breast of the eagle, but the work must have proved too laborious, for the diggers gave up before they had reached the bottom layer of overlapping stones.

Rough but fairly accurate measurements of the bird show the length of the eagle from the middle of the tail to the head to be 102 feet and from tip to tip of outspread wings 120 feet. The length of the beak is ten feet, and the height of the body at the center of the breast is ten feet. The eagle lies with its head to the west.

Tradition does not give any satisfactory explanation of the age or the meaning of the great stone mound. It may have had religious significance to the red men who built it, and it may be the burial place of some great chief. It is one of the most mysterious and most interesting of prehistoric monuments in the United States.—Youth's Companion.

SHAKESPEARE WAS SHREWD.

Poet Was an Excellent Business Man, but Fond of Litigation.

One reason may be given for Shakespeare not publishing his plays, and we have reason to think it was of a kind to appeal to him. There was no copyright, and to publish the plays was to lessen their financial value to his company. This "gentle Will," this "sweetest Shakespeare," this "Swan of Avon," was an admirable man of business. If we had only the records of the law courts, in fact, we might not be able to think so very well of him. He had a keenness for litigation which he seems to have inherited from his father. As a taxpayer he was slow, if not positively evasive. He was apparently negligent of a debt contracted by his wife. Like many men of property, he evaded the restrictions against brewing malt liquor for his private use, being in his way a moonshiner.

Liberal in giving aid and lending money to his friends in need, he was strict in collecting debts. At about the time he wrote the final version of "Hamlet" he sued the village apothecary at Stratford to recover a small loan, and while he was at work on the world tragedy of "Antony and Cleopatra" he engaged in litigation that brought him in conflict with the village blacksmith, a state of affairs that Emerson relates with something akin to horror. He conspired with his father to secure from the conniving Herald's college a shady coat of arms and the right to subscribe himself "gent," and, while apparently not actively aiding an attempt to inclose Stratford common lands in defiance of the rights of the people, he at best remained strictly neutral toward the project.

Careless as he seems to have been as to his fame as a dramatist, he was in business by no means above current standards of conduct. One gathers that the chief interest of his later years was to live at ease as a gentleman and provide well for his family. It is related on pretty good authority that he died of "a feaver" after a merry meeting" at Stratford with his old friend Ben Jonson and the poet Drayton. But it is not unlikely that the true cause of his fever was not drink, but the insanitary condition of the street in which he lived.—John Corbin in New York Times.

SAVED HER FAMILY.

Climax to the Fearless Fight of a Plucky Spider.

Crossing a field one day, I came upon a large female spider of the hunter family carrying a round white sack of eggs half the size of a cherry attached to her spinnerets.

Plucking a long stem of herd's grass, I detached the sack of eggs without bruising it. Instantly the spider turned and sprang at the grass stem, fighting and biting until she got to the sack, which she seized in her strong jaws and made off with it as fast as her rapid legs would carry her.

I laid the stem across her back and again took the sack away. She came on for it again, fighting more fiercely than before. Once more she seized it, once more I forced it from her jaws, while she sprang and bit at the grass stem to annihilate it.

The fight must have been on for two minutes when by a regrettable move on my part one of her legs was injured. She did not falter in her fight. On she rushed for the sack as fast as I pulled it away. The mother in her was rampant.

She would have fought for that sack, I believe, until she had not one of her eight legs to stand on had I been cruel enough to compel her. It did not come to this, for suddenly the sack burst, and out poured a myriad of tiny brown spiders.

Before I could think that mother had rushed among them and caused them to swarm upon her, covering her many deep, even to the outer joints of her long legs—so deep that I could not now have touched her with a needle except at the risk of crushing the young. I stood by and watched her slowly move off with her insatiate family to a place of safety.—Dallas Lore Sharp in Atlantic Monthly.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove it

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula, after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

"Back-Fire" is Feared.

When Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, goes out on the stump next fall to defend Democratic free trade policies, he is likely to be confronted with a statement made by him in the Senate on March 13th while discussing the army reorganization bill. Senator Chamberlain admitted that the American army costs more per man than any other army in the civilized world, and said:

"The American soldier, like to be better fed, better clothed, and better taken care of. Place the American laborer, demands our army on the basis of some other army and you would not have a corporal's guard in the United States."

"Like the American laborer," is the expression that gives away the whole Democratic free trade argument. When it is admitted that the American laborer demands to be better fed, better clothed, and better taken care of than the laborer of any other civilized country, it must also be admitted that the difference must be covered and guaranteed by protective tariff or the foreign laborer will seize the American market and, relatively speaking, there won't be a corporal's guard left in American mills. Senator Chamberlain talks like an advocate of protection of American labor but he voted for the Underwood tariff bill, which refused the demand of the American laborer to be "better fed, better clothed, and better taken care of." Will Democratic newspapers in Oregon give their candid opinion of the merits of the demand of American soldiers and American laborers?

A Fellow and His Lodge.

Some people are lodge crazy and join everything in sight. They are called "joiners." Others are pessimistic and can see no good in any lodge.

But there is much good to be derived from membership in any of the legitimate lodges that flourish everywhere, provided the lodge habit.

It creates a spirit of comradeship among the members that is seldom found elsewhere. If a member is in distress or difficulty, his lodge promptly comes to his relief and tides him over the rough places and into smoother waters. If he is sick, they cheer him with their presence, and watch at his bedside, and see that his family does not suffer during his incapacity. And in many ways they are a distinct benefit one to another.

The lodge is the symbol of the brotherhood of man, and its tenets are founded upon the Bible and advocate the elevation of the human race.

Another election and another Democrat giving way to a Republican successor. This time it is in Kansas City, Missouri, where a mayor was chosen. The Republican tendency of 1916 is by this time well established. The Kansas City election is of particular importance, for it demonstrates the solid foundation on which Republicans are basing their claim to put Missouri in the Republican column this fall. The President may attempt to stem the tide by appointing a few more Missouri Democrats to fat offices, but the fact remains that Missouri, like the country at large, has set its face toward Republicanism this year.

Hartford, Connecticut, is also tired of Democratic rule and at its recent municipal election it supplanted a Democratic city government with a Republican. Object lessons of this kind are worth a hundred straw votes as proof of the political tendencies of this presidential year.

The fellow who identifies himself with some good lodge and lives up to its teachings will be a better man and citizen for the few hours he devotes to its meetings.

Yours Very Truly,

HUNDRED LEADING HOOSIERS

Oliver P. Morton (1823-'77).

CLIMBS FOR PIGEON; FALLS

Eleven-Year-Old Son of Demp Norris is Seriously Hurt

It was during Oliver P. Morton's term as governor that he did his greatest service and won for himself a name inseparably linked with Indiana history. Few men foresaw the magnitude of the great war that was coming but Morton was prepared. When President Lincoln on April 15, 1865, called for 75,000 volunteers, Governor Morton at once offered the services of 10,000 men. Within a week more than three times the number of volunteers required to fill Indiana's quota offered themselves.

special session of the legislature voted $2,000,000 to supply and equip Indiana's volunteers. As an executive, organizer, and leader of forces, Morton had no peer in the union. In 1862 when the legislature hesitated to make additional appropriations, he secured large sums from the county boards and small banks and from the national government he secured more than $200,000. A bureau of finance was established and under the direction of General Terrell, this extra legal department of state government was conducted for two years. Governor Morton was universally endorsed for this move. In 1864 he was re-elected governor over Joseph E. McDonald by more than 20,000 majority. In 1867 he was elected to the United States senate.

In the senate Oliver P. Morton ranked among the very ablest members. Suffering constantly from the effects of a slight paralytic stroke he nevertheless took part in all the important legislation. He was chairman of the committee on privileges and elections and championed those measures that treated the rebellious states as conquered provinces.

He opposed the policy of President Johnson and favored his impeachment when he broke with congress. In the disputed election of 1876 Governor Morton voted against the electoral commission plan; but after it was created he was named as one of its members. In 1877 he was sent to Oregon as chairman of a committee to investigate the election of Senator Grover.

ile

While stopping at San Francisco on his return home he had another stroke of paralysis. He was brought back to his native state and died at Indianapolis, November 1, 1877.

WIRELESS LINKS TWO OCEANS

Battleship In the Atlantic Talks to Another in Pacific.

Washington.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced that for the first time a wireless message had been successfully transmitted from a naval vessel in the Atlantic to one in the Pacific.

The experiment was successfully tried when the battleship Wyoming, off Cape Henry, Va., exchanged messages with Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, on board the cruiser San Diego in Guaymas harbor, west coast of Mexico. The messages were easily deciphered. By air line Guaymas is approximately 2,000 miles from Cape Henry.

Claude (Dumb) Levi, and Will Rainey, two of the men mentioned yesterday by Mrs. Anna Driver as having been customers of Clevenger testified for the defense, stating that they never at any time saw Mrs. Driver at the Clevenger home and denied ever buying any whiskey or beer from Clevenger or his wife. Levi admitted on cross-examination that many people were to be seen coming and going from the Clevenger home on Sundays.

Clevenger took the stand in his own defense late yesterday afternoon and denied each and every sale as brought out by the state, ten in all. He denied keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were sold and declared that all of the intoxicating liquors on his presence in the past two years consisted of two barrels of beer. One of these, he declared, was purchased for the benefit of his sister-in-law, whose husband died following the taking of carbolic acid and who was shot by Clevenger last fall.

The other barrel of beer that the defendant stated was in his home in the past two years was purchased by Al Simms and himself. He declared that Simms' wife objected to his drinking and that he kept it at the Clevenger home in order that she might not find it out. In explaining the beer that Columbus Glore, Charles Sweet and several others testified to buying at his home, Clevenger stated that the men brought the beer with them and drank it across the race.

Clevenger stated that his business consisted of gathering garbage and selling ice. The defense attempted to bring out the idea that he was too busy a man to have time to be a "bootegger." Clevenger offered a reason as to why most of the men who testified against him were "sore" at him. According to Clevenger he and Columbus Glore had a "falling out" over the rent of a small house and Greely Perkins and Clevenger had not been "dear" friends for many years.

The trouble between Clevenger and Perkins dated back to a time when Clevenger was tending bar for William Pea, his brother-in-law. On this occasion Perkins had two fights and the last time, Clevenger admitted that he almost killed him.

Clevenger was given a short but grueling cross-examination. He denied either selling to or in the presence of any of the state witnesses that testified against him.

The state used ten witnesses and each and every one testified to either buying intoxicating liquor of Clevenger or of having seen it sold by him. Robert Johnson, colored, husband of the Mrs. Johnson, who was the star witness for the state yesterday, testified just before the state closed. He said he had frequently bought whiskey and beer of Clevenger and said that the last time was on Christmas day last year. He remembered this occasion as his brother from Indianapolis was visiting him and they went there and got a quart of whiskey.

He said Clevenger sold it by the quart from $1 to $1.50. Beer, he said, sold for fifteen cents a bottle or two for a quarter.

At the close of the state's case the defense moved the court to strike out all testimony regarding beer because it was not shown to be intoxicating. This motion was overruled by Judge Sparks.

U. P. MISSIONARY

"Home Missions as a Healing Force" was the subject discussed this afternoon at the meeting of the Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church held with Mrs. S. H. Trabue. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. William Hoard and Miss Mary Fisher dealt in a very comprehensive way with "Christianity and Suffering, Hospitals and their Relation to the Church, and the Ministry and Healing in the United Presbyterian Church. A short business meeting and social hour followed while light refreshments were served by the hostess.

PSI IOTA XI

Miss Leah Fint was hostess for the members of Psi Iota Xi last evening at her home in North Perkins street. A excellent program featured the meeting, which included an interesting review of "Changing America," a book by Edward A. Ross, dealing with a number of important questions of the times. The book was divided into two parts and intensely interesting papers were read on it by Miss Laura Holden and Miss Harriet Vredenburg. A piano solo was played by Miss Mary Smith. The hostess served a delicious salad course during the later part of the meeting.

It was decided to hold initiation on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Miss Frances Neutzenhelzer. A pitch-in supper will follow initiation and be served at 5 o'clock. The second division will have this in charge.

Several live wire boosters from the Martinsville Chamber of Commerce were expected to arrive here about three o'clock this afternoon in an automobile to attend the district meeting of business men held under the auspices of the Rush County Business Men's Association.

Included in the party were expected Roy E. Tilford, a druggist, president of the Martinsville Chamber of Commerce; Virg Trewitt, shoe dealer, vice-president of the chamber; Byron Huff, dry goods man, chairman of the retail division of the chamber; O. C. Toner, chairman of the advertisers' club of the chamber; and John Northway, the secretary-manager.

The party expected to leave Martinsville today at noon and get here in time for the closing part of the afternoon session and the banquet tonight.

BRYAN'S BROTHER LOOKS TO BE LOSER

Late Returns Indicate His Defeat for Governorship Nomination in Nebraska.

ON PROHIBITION PLATFORM

Omaha, Neb., April 19.—In the state-wide primary here yesterday, indications are that Keith Neville had defeated Charles W. Bryan, brother of the former secretary of state in the contest for the Democratic nomination for governor. Mr. Bryan made his campaign on a prohibition platform.

President Wilson was unopposed on the Democratic ballot.

On the Republican ticket for United States senator, former Representative John L. Kennedy was leading former Governor Chester H. Aldrich.

United States Senator G. M. Hitchcock appeared to have been renominated in the Democratic primaries over Ignatius J. Dunn.

FORSAKEN ENKHUIZEN.

At One Time One of Holland's Richest and Greatest Cities.

Of all the so called "dead cities" of the Zuider Zee, Enkhuizen has most completely lost her former prosperity. One who wanders about her silent and empty streets can impossible realize that this shrunken and depopulated city was once one of the wealthiest and most important in Holland.

Enkhuizen dates from the ninth century or even earlier. In the zenith of its greatness, the seventeenth century, it possessed 40,000 inhabitants and a fishing fleet of 400 boats engaged in the herring trade. Enkhuizen sailors were well known for their courage and seafaring ability.

But less than a hundred years later the harbor of Enkhuizen was silting up, and her commerce had already declined. Since then whole streets have been pulled down, as the population diminished, for only a few thousand inhabitants remain. But the ancient gate, the Dromedaris, that guards its now empty harbor still stands, a monument of the past greatness of Enkhuizen.

The noble Wester kerk is built of the deep red, narrow bricks often used in Netherlands architecture. In its choir are some sixteenth century wood carvings. Its unlovely wooden belfry is detached, but connected with the church by a minute but attractive old house. The small, old, red tiled houses, each with a different facade, form an irregular line that is singularly charming. The streets of the little town are very quiet and empty. Their stillness is almost unbroken except by some beautiful chimes.—Argonaut.

Going to Paint this Year?

Most everyone has more or less painting to do in the Spring. Nothing pays a larger dividend on your investment. A well painted house or barn does not cost so much to keep in repair as a neglected one and besides it adds much to the value and appearance of the surroundings.

But you must use GOOD Paint to secure these results. Not one that will chalk or scale off in a short time after applying. Only the purest and best of lead, zinc and oil are used in the manufacture of BURDSAL'S STEAMBOAT PAINTS. When using them you are assured of the maximum of durability and beauty. Besides their covering properties make them far more economical to use than many others which are sold at a higher price.

For interior use they can be had in endless variety, a paint, stain or color for any purpose desired. Whatever you may need, we have it.

PROMPT DELIVERY

Now for the last rush for Easter apparel. This store's prestige is never more in evidence than at the Easter-tide, when all its resources are drawn on to clothe milady from head to foot in stylish and becoming manner. When you wish to purchase merchandise of quality, come to the Quality Store.

We Give "O.H." Green Trading Stamps

The store that affords you a selection among hundreds of garments is in the best position to please you. Our offerings are strictly new, many of them having arrived during the past week. Suits seem to be the most popular garments for spring and we are sure we can please you with either a silk or wool one. There are scarcely two alike and the materials are beautiful.

Scores of coats in almost as many textures and in myriads of spring like colors are here, and the prices attached will most certainly appeal to you. Beautiful dresses of crepe-de-chene, taffeta, and georgette combinations in rich colors are here in sizes to fit you.

So exquisite as to afford no rejection are the blouses and waists of georgette, crepe de chene, and tub silk, and the skirts to finish the costume are just as pretty.

The April shipment of Fitrite silk petticoats has just arrived. Correctly fitted in a Gossard, Kabo, or W. B. corset your Easter outfit will appear to much better advantage.

There is no better lingerie than Dove undermuslins.

Fitted in fashionable footwear, you must be, and J. & K. Wright & Peters, and Queen Quality shoes afford you that opportunity. Our hosiery department is displaying many patterns of fancy silk hosiery, and the glove department can fit you in almost anything you may want in kid, silk or chamoisette gloves.

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Pains Disappeared After Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, with bearing down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SEBOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues. For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Confidential, Lynn, Mass.

HOPE FOR RECORD DISPLAY OF EGGS

Show Committee and Freshmen Agriculture Students Extend Themselves For Event

CLASSES OF MANY KINDS

Silver Cup is Offered as Trophy to High School Making the Best Exhibit.

The members of the Purdue Egg Show committee as well as a large number of the Freshman Agricultural students are putting forth their best efforts in an attempt to stage the biggest and best exhibition of eggs ever seen at Purdue. Anyone acquainted with Purdue's former shows knows that this is a big undertaking. The dates this year are May 10, 11 and 12.

There will be classes for farmers, fanciers, commercial poultrymen, high schools, Boys' and Girls' clubs and Agricultural Experiment Stations. If sufficient interest is manifested to warrant such a step, there will also be an opportunity for the first time, for poultry packers and shippers to exhibit.

A great amount of effort is being expended to make the Experiment Station Class and the High School Class the special features of this show. Letters of advertisements have been sent to every Experiment Station in the United States and to some in Canada, with the splendid result that already many have promised entries. From among these there are entries from as far west as California and as far east as Massachusetts, from Canada on the north to Mississippi on the south.

To arouse interest in the High School class, a letter has been sent to every high school in Indiana, urging that entries be sent in. Where possible it is highly desirable that the high school hold a local egg show and then send the winning exhibits to Purdue to complete with others from all over the state. This is an unusual opportunity for rural high schools to do splendid work in their local communities. The premiums awarded the winner in this class is a handsome silver cup which is to be competed for annually. This cup is held at present by the Jefferson High School of LaFayette.

The educational value of the Show will be enhanced by various educational exhibits and demonstrations on the best methods of sorting and packing eggs.

The merchants and business men of Lafayette are lending their hearty support to the Show, and, whatever degree of success may be attained will be due in a large measure to them.

IN URGENT NEED OF BETTER CONDITIONS

This is Comment of Board of State Charities Concerning Poor Asylum Here.

SAYS JAIL IS WELL MANAGED

The Indiana Bulletin of Charities and Corrections and the twenty-sixth annual report of the Board of State Charities of Indiana have been received here. The Indiana bulletin makes no report on a visit to the Rush county jail and poor asylum but both institutions are mentioned in the annual report of the state board.

The report relates the circumstance about the proposed erection of the new poor asylum, recalling that the county council refused to appropriate the money. It says that "The interior appearance of the Rush county jail was greatly improved by being painted white. It is strong and in the most part well managed." Concerning the asylum it says:

Early in the year the Rush county commissioners considered the erection of a new institution. Plans were prepared and submitted to this Board but the county council declined to make the necessary appropriation at that time. This county is in urgent need of better conditions and the present buildings are not worth extensive improvements. In January a one-room frame cottage was destroyed by fire and one of the sick inmates was burned to death in it.

Evansville Business Men Await Signal From Washington

(By United Press)

Evansville, Ind., April 19.—Evansville business men are awaiting a signal that will send them in swarms to Washington. The signal will come when the fight for the location of the proposed $11,000,000 government armor-plate factory in Evansville reaches a climax. One hundred local men will make the trip and they propose by demonstrations and an effective lobby to make Evansville's place on the map more secure.

PREPARING TO PAVE STREET

City Council Passes Resolution Ordering All Mains to be Extended to Curb

TO IMPROVE PERKINS STREET

City Takes Steps to Recover $65

Tied up in Costs in Damage Suit Which it Won

The final steps toward paving North Perkins street in the Stewart and Tompkins addition was taken last night when the city council passed a resolution ordering all sewer, water and gas mains to be extended to the curb line. The resolution is similar to those passed preliminary to the paving of all streets in the city.

The contract for the paving of Perkins street was let late last fall and the contractor is about ready to start work. In order to have the street in shape for the paving the city believed that the resolution was necessary. It is provided that in cases where the property owner does not make the necessary sewer, water and gas taps, the city will do the work and tax it against property May 2 was the time set for hearing remonstrances. The Ohio Construction company has the contract for the street.

A petition was presented to the council calling for curb and gutters in Maple street from Eighth street to Tenth street. It was referred to the street and alley committee.

The old Herkless-Keller damage suit bobbed up again last night when the city attorney was instructed to file a motion in the supreme court to relax the costs and set aside the city's part. Herkless secured a judgment against the Julius Keller Construction company and the City of Rushville for $2,100 in the circuit court and the case was reversed by the appellate court and sent back here for retrial. The time has passed for the filing of a motion for a new trial and as the appellate court held the city was not responsible the present action was taken by the city in order to recover the $65 tied up in the costs. The Kellers are now bankrupt and as Herkless cannot recover from the city there was no need of trying it again.

The report of the city treasurer for the month of March was found correct by the finance committee and placed on file.

The lease and contract entered into between the city and Patrick Carroll was approved and was ordered filed in the recorder's office. The city entered into a contract with Carroll in order to run some water mains across his property.

MUST ABANDON ITS SUBMARINE WARFARE

Germany Will be Compelled to Change U-Boat Policy or United States Will Sever Diplomatic Relations.

WILSON SPEAKS

President Tells Congress There is no Other Alternative For This Government

INDICTS GERMANS SEVERELY

Outlines Campaign of Imperial Government From Its Inception in February, 1915

HOW HE HAS BEEN CAUTIOUS

Asserts Less And Less Restraint Has Been Shown by Germans as Months go By.

BULLETIN

(By United Press.)

Washington April 19.—The United States demands practically the end of submarine warfare by Germany in the note sent by President Wilson, it was learned this afternoon.

The elimination of all submarine warfare except against actual battleships is necessary, it was pointed out by a high authority, because Germany can not conduct such warfare with her present methods.

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 19.—"Unless the Imperial German government should now immediately declare and effect an abandonment of its present method of warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels, this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the government of the German empire all together."

This declaration was made by President Wilson to congress this afternoon at the climax of a message in which he indicated in severest terms the German submarine campaign.

"This decision I have arrived at," the president added, "with the keenest regret; the possibility of the action contemplated I am sure all thoughtful Americans look forward to with unaffected reluctance."

The president made no request of congress. He simply fulfilled a promise that he would advise congress in case he took action such as he is reported today having taken.

The president's message reviewed broadly the history of submarine warfare from its beginning in February, 1915 when the German government announced the creation of a war zone about the British Isles, up to the present time. He told of the original protest of the United States government that such a policy could not be pursued without "the practical certainty of gross and palpable violation of the law of nations, particularly if submarine craft were to be employed."

How the German government, over the protest of our government, at once proceeded to carry out its announced policy, was told by the president, though it gave assurances it would take every possible precaution to respect the rights of neutrals and safeguard the lives of non-combatants.

"In pursuance of the policy of submarine warfare against commerce of its adversaries thus announced and entered upon by the Imperial German government, the commanders of German under-sea vessels have attacked merchant ships with greater and greater activity—wherever they could encounter them, in a way that has grown more and more ruthless, more and more indiscriminate as the months have gone by, less and less observance of restraint of any kind," said the president.

Describing the result of submarine warfare, the president said:

"Tragedy has followed tragedy on the sea with such fashion, with such attendant circumstances as to make it grossly evident that war of such a sort. Warfare if it be, can not be carried on without the most palpable violation of the dictates alike of right and humanity."

The president then told of the latest German order authorizing submarine commanders to sink all armed vessels, and how even unarmed merchant vessels and liners have been sunk since then.

The president then said that the sinking of the Channel steamer Sussex was "one of the most shocking instances of this method of warfare." "It must stand forth," he said, "as the sinking of the steamer Lusitania did, as so singularly tragical and unjustifiable as to constitute a truly terrible example of the inhumanity of submarine warfare as the commanders of German vessels have for the past twelve months been conducting it."

If this instance stood alone, the president said, some explanation might be sought or entertained, but unhappily it does not stand alone."

"The government of the United States has been very patient," he said. "At every stage of this distressing experience of tragedy after tragedy in which its own citizens were involved, it has sought to be restrained from any extreme course of action or of protest by a thoughtful consideration of the extraordinary circumstances of this unprecedented war and actuated in all that it said or did by the sentiment of genuine friendship with which the people of the United States have always entertained and continue to entertain toward the German nation. It has, of course, accepted the successive explanation and assurances of the Imperial German government as given in sincerity and good faith and has hoped even against hope that it would prove to be possible for the German government so to order and control the acts of its naval commanders as to square its policy with the principles of humanity as embodied in the laws of nations.

"It has been willing to wait until the significance of the acts become absolutely unmistakable and susceptible of but one interpretation. That point has now unhappily been reached. The facts are susceptible of but one interpretation. The Imperial German government has been unable to put any limit of restraint upon its warfare against either freight or passenger ships. It has become painfully evident that the position of the department and his disposition have the department's approval," said Baker.

"General Funston remains in full charge of the affairs of his department including the expedition into Mexico. He has the full confidence of the department and his disposition have the department's approval," said Baker.

How the German government, over the protest of our government, at once proceeded to carry out its announced policy, was told by the president, though it gave assurances it would take every possible precaution to respect the rights of neutrals and

(By United Press.)

Washington, April 19.—Bitter comment fell from the lips of Republican Leader Mann, following the president's submarine address to congress.

"It is a hypocritical speech probably for campaign purposes," he said. "The president has been pro-English all during the controversy. I said at the time of the LeMore resolution that the president wanted us to get into war with Germany and I say the same thing now."

Incompatible with the principles of humanity."

The president then delivered his ultimatum as quoted.

Chairman Stone and Senator Lodge of the senate foreign relations committee and Chairman Flood and Representative Cooper of the house foreign affairs committee heard from the president what he intended to say to congress this afternoon and made known their approval.

BULLETIN.

(By United Press.)

Mexico City, Mexico, April 19.—An official dispatch received here this afternoon said the examination of the body supposed to be Villa's is progressing and that identification is momentarily expected.

(By United Press.) Washington, April 19.—Chief of Staff Scott will leave tonight for San Antonio to spend several days with General Funston in canvassing the Mexican situation.

Scott's trip is at Secretary Baker's request. It is made solely for the purpose of getting as accurate information as possible for the use of the department, said Baker.

"General Funston remains in full charge of the affairs of his department including the expedition into Mexico. He has the full confidence of the department and his disposition have the department's approval," said Baker.

100 VISITORS AT FIRST MEET

Many More Guests Are Expected for Banquet Tonight, Closing Feature of Gathering.

Organization is Keynote of Afternoon Session When Two Men Address Meeting.

Probably one hundred visiting merchants were in attendance for the opening session of the district meeting of business men this afternoon in the court house assembly room. The banquet, the closing feature of the meeting is expected to be attended by at least 300 men. All of the cities in the district were represented at the meeting.

The opening address was made by Samuel L. Trabue, who welcomed the visitors to the city. A. Bogue, secretary of the association credit bureau, delivered an address on "Necessity of Organization." Mr. Bogue stated that in every line of business it was organization that counted and declared that the merchants were about the last to be organized.

He outlined a plan of the mail order houses to secure legislation for a flat rate parcel post law and urged the merchants to fight this action. Following an address by Roy Kannan of Greensburg, a business session was held and committees were appointed.

Indications at noon were that the expectations of local business men would be fulfilled. The ideal weather made it fine for motoring and many of the visitors were expected to come in automobiles.

Arrangements have been made to seat 520 at the banquet tonight at the First Presbyterian church. Any overflow will have to be taken care of in some way not yet arranged. A chicken dinner is promised the banqueters, and those who have attended banquets served by the women of the First Presbyterian church know that it will be good as the best.

A. L. Gary will preside at toasting master and Fred Leiter, president of the Connersville Business Men's Credit Exchange, will deliver the first toast on the subject, "Credits and Collections." Albert Brister of Indianapolis will speak on "Legislation." The meeting will close with the report of the committees appointed this afternoon, a general discussion and the singing of "America."

MARKET BREAKS BADLY

War Stocks Suffer Most From the Rumors of War With Germany.

(By United Press.)

New York, April 19.—The stock markets broke badly today on reports from Washington that a break between the United States and Germany is imminent. The war stocks recorded the biggest losses.

Crucible steel opened at 82, off three and five-eights and immediately dropped one-half lower. Baldwin locomotives declined two points on the first trade and other munition shares suffered similar losses.

JURY WILL GET CASE TONIGHT

State Introduces Evidence in Clevenger Case to Offset Defense Character Witnesses.

CLEVENER TELLS STORY

Mrs. Driver, Back on Stand, Says Mrs. Clevenger Declared They Wouldn't Bother Mart.

The "blind tiger" case against Mart Clevenger will not go to the jury before this evening. The state began introducing evidence in rebuttal this afternoon when the defense rested. Most of the witnesses this afternoon were character witnesses and tended to offset the character witnesses introduced by the defense.

A large number of local men testified that Clevenger's reputation was good. About an equal number of men testified for the state that his character was bad, especially during the past two years. The case would have ended today had not the defense gone into the reputation of Clevenger.

Mrs. Anna Driver, the star witness for the state yesterday, was called to the stand today to testify regarding a conversation she had with Mrs. Clevenger. She said that she warned Mrs. Clevenger against the handling of intoxicating liquor and received the reply that "they wouldn't do anything with Mart and he was not afraid."

Mrs. Driver again showed a dislike to the defense attorney. Mr. Duncan, in an effort to discredit the witness, asked her if she did not drink liquor.

"Don't you tell me I drink liquor," yelled Mrs. Driver as she got about half way out of the witness chair and shook her fist at the attorney.

Mrs. Clevenger was on the stand this morning and told practically the same story as her husband, excepting the incident wherein Al Simms was brought into the case. Clevenger stated that in the past two years only two barrels of beer had been at their home and that one of these was a partnership affair with Al Simms. Mrs. Clevenger testified that Simms came there and took his half of the barrel away with him while Mart stated that Simms came there and drank his beer so that Mrs. Simms would not know he was drinking.

Mrs. Clevenger admitted that on several occasions Mart brought home small quantities of beer from Indianapolis, but that the beer was consumed by the family. Clevenger did not mention this in his testimony. At first Mrs. Clevenger stated that the two barrels of beer were all the intoxicants ever in the house during the past two years, but on cross-examination told about the beer being brought home from Indianapolis. Mrs. Clevenger said that she did not like beer at first but learned to like it and got so she could drink one bottle a day without feeling any ill effects.

She denied ever "dishing out the stuff" to any of the witnesses that testified for the state or of ever seeing Mart selling any. Some of the witnesses she did not know and declared that they never visited her home. Mrs. Clevenger said the doctor advised her to drink beer. She said that on the day Greely Perkins was alleged to have come to their home she did not see him and denied that he had ever purchased any "booze" there. At the time Perkins said he went there, on Sunday Feb. 20, 1916, Mrs. Clevenger was ill in bed and admitted on cross-examination

Milton Tompkins of Milroy Files Complaint to Restore Title to Seven Acres

DAUGHTER IS DEFENDANT

Declares he Has no Recollection of Signing Deed—Only Owned a Third Interest

Alleging that the deed to a seven-acre tract of land in Milroy was obtained through fraud, Milton (Pat) Tompkins filed suit in the circuit court today against Arthur L. Jenner and Sally Jenner, asking that the deed be set aside and the title restored to his name. Mrs. Jenner is a daughter of Mr. Tompkins.

The complaint is sensational in that it alleges the deed as recorded pretends to convey the entire seven acres while in fact Mr. Tompkins only owned a one-third interest in the real estate in question. The allegation is also made that he never received a cent of the $100 purported to be the purchase price.

The complaint states that on April 7, 1915 the defendants fraudulently procured the deed to the seven acres of land in one of the recent additions to Milroy. It is alleged that at the time Mr. Tompkins was sick and had been under the care of a physician for several months.

It is alleged that on April 7, 1915 the defendants induced the plaintiff to accompany them in their automobile for a pretended ride and that instead of taking the promised ride they brought him to Rushville and took him to an attorney's office where there was a notary public and that the deed was executed.

Tompkins states that he has no remembrance of signing the deed or of being in the notary's office. It is pointed out that the deed pretends to convey all of the real estate, while in fact the plaintiff was the owner of only one-third of it.

It is also claimed in the complaint that the defendants paid $400 for the land, but the plaintiff never received a cent. The court is asked to set aside the deed and to restore the title to Mr. Tompkins. T. M. Green represents Mr. Tompkins.

An investigation in the recorder's office shows that the deed was acknowledged by Wallace Morgan, as a notary of public. The deed was recorded two days after the property was conveyed to the defendants in the suit.

Does Newspaper Advertising Pay?

A large paint manufacturer asked this question of retailers throughout the country.

NO. 2 SAID:

"Your advertisement should show a customer definite articles that you have that fills a need he has and should be in such a spirit that back of your words he will know there is the stuff to make good what you say. That's half the battle. Get one article that you sell to be commonly spoken of throughout your country as the very highest quality for any specific purpose; or get a number of articles you thus handle to be common household words throughout your section as standing for satisfaction and utility, and you win your battle for trade."

"Write your advertisements with this purpose in view and we cannot see why they will not be effective."

MANGLING A WORD.

Why "Comptroller" is Used Instead of the Correct "Controller."

It is an old story, many times told, that the scriveners centuries ago, ignorant of Latin, but having heard that in French "compteur" means to count and assuming that as the controller has to do with money he must of course, count money, wedged the false and perverting letter "p" with an "m" before it into a perfectly good and correctly formed word.

In late Latin the word is "contrarotulator." The keeper of the king's rolls, the payroll and other accounts, was the "rotulator." To guard against the possible dishonesty of that official being appointed an auditor to check up his accounts and called him the "contrarotulator"—that is, the counter roll keeper. From "contrarotulator" the word has come into modern languages, always without the offending "p."

In French, Spanish, Italian, German and Russian we have the word "control," meaning the keeping or auditing of accounts, and the title of the officer in those languages is spelled always without the "m" and the "p." When our commissioners to the Paris peace conference in 1898 used the word "control," meaning political control of the Philippines, the Spanish commissioners were puzzled; they thought our representatives were speaking of matters of finance.

But the word "comptroller," with its vicious spelling and implication of a false etymology, is imbedded in the Federal statutes and in the constitution of the state of New York. All the king's oxen could not pull it out against the Boeotian indifference and inertia of those who, if they would, might correct the blunder.—New York Times.

BASQUES OF THE PYRENEES.

Those on the Spanish Slopes Are the Pure Aborigines of Europe.

You are in the habit of thinking of the inhabitants of France as "French" and the inhabitants of Spain as "Spanish." Did you happen to read a learned disquisition on the shape of the skulls of people living on the two slopes of the Pyrenees, together with the announcement that, contrary to the belief of scientists, the Basques are not all of the same origin? And then did you ask, "Who are the Basques?" Primarily they are the people who gave to the rest of the world a curious kind of garment for women, but they are far more interesting to the student of anthropology and the historical development of language than they are to the designers of women's clothes.

There was a time before the present generation of scientists got to work on the problem when the Basques, both in Spain and in France, were recognized as the last remnant of the original occupants of Europe, the people who were driven into this backwater of civilization by the onrush of the Celts. The Celts were in their turn driven westward and into such out-of-the-way corners as they could hold, so that they are now represented by certain strains in Spain, by the Bretons in France, the Irish, Scotch, Welsh, Cornish and Manx in the British Isles and by a substratum of the Bohemians and the Celts. Those who preceded them and who managed to cling to the mountain strongholds of the Pyrenees are remotely related to the Finns in another remote backwater. The ones on the Spanish slopes are the pure aborigines of Europe.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Appian Way.

The famous Appian way, mentioned by almost every Roman writer, connected the Eternal City with all parts of south Italy. For many miles from Rome the space on each side was filled with sepulchers, many of them of persons distinguished in history. To have a sepulcher on the Appian way was equivalent to being buried in Greenwood, in New York, or Pere Lachaise, in Paris.

CAN'T MEASURE THEM SAME WAY

Whittit Declares Judas And Gang Were Wrong in Comparing Spiritual With Temporal

BETRAYAL IS DISCUSSED

Asserts Belief That One Who Betrayed Christ Selected Because of Good Qualities

"Judas and his gang were wrong," said the Rev. W. M. Whitsitt of St. Paul's M. E. Church at the Passion Week services at the First Baptist church last night. "You can't measure spiritual things and temporal things the same way."

The minister drew a likeness between Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold and contrasted Judas and Mary, who poured the precious ointment on Jesus' feet and was reprimanded by Judas for such waste. He revealed the salient points of similarity between Judas and Arnold and the deep contrast between the characters of Judas and Mary, taking practical lessons for the present day from each.

Tonight's service will be at the St. Paul's M. E. church and the Rev. C. M. Yocom will preach on the subject, "The Denial."

The Rev. Mr. Whitsitt's subject was, "The Betrayal." He said the question had arisen in the minds of most people, why did Jesus select such a man to be one of his twelve disciples? It is understood that Jesus knew about Judas, he said, but whether He knew from the first or not, He at least did know before the event occurred that one of the twelve would betray Him. The pastor said in all probability Jesus had Judas in mind.

"Judas had his good qualities, he continued "and I suppose he was selected because of them. I suppose he was a good financier. The church then as now needed men who knew how to get money and how to use money. He probably was selected for that reason."

"Again, I think Jesus wanted to give Judas a chance just as he gives every man a chance. Here was an opportunity for him to be changed, but he lost his opportunity. This is one of the sad things in his case."

"Again, I think Jesus was hunting for disciples just as he is hunting for them today. I believe Jesus would use better people today if he could get them. Some of you people may have thought that of us preachers. We must have men and women to do the work. And what I say I do not mean as any reflection on those who are working in the church now. Many churches are compelled to use laymen in the pulpits but God is blessing them. The church evidently has back of it Almighty God because if we gave no more concentrated thought to our business than some of us do to our church, we would not stay in business long. If the church were all human, it would have gone to the wall long ago, but it is divine."

"Again, I suppose you have asked often what led to the betrayal. I doubt if any of the disciples had a proper conception until after He was gone. Judas held the money bag and counted and figured until he thought there was nothing to the church but statistics. There is danger in statistics. Today there is danger of nationalism in the church."

"Judas was the only disciple who was not a Galilean. He was different and there may have been things said against him that drove him from Christ."

"Perhaps there was a little pride in the heart of Judas. There was always that consciousness that Jesus knew Him as He looked into his heart. I am afraid that Judas took everything that the Master said as against him and that that drove him away from Jesus. There is no neutral ground. Christianity will either draw men to it or drive them away from it."

"There were two spirits in Judas. There is a possibility of two sides to every person—a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Here is a man who is outwardly with Jesus Christ but

PARCEL POST IS MAKING BIG STRIDE

Comparison Between Count This Month And One in October Shows Rapid Gains.

681 MORE PIECES DELIVERED

According to figures on a fifteen day parcel post count at the Rushville postoffice, completed Monday but which was not announced until today, the parcel post business is making rapid strides. A comparison on the present count with one of similar length last October is made.

The count was on all parcel post received to be dispatched and delivered from the office by all classes of carriers. The total number dispatched the fifteen days this month was 1007 as compared to 932 received to be dispatched the first fifteen days of last October, a gain of 75. The total number delivered in the period just closed was 2815 as compared to 2134 last October, a gain of 681 pieces.

Of the number delivered the first half of this month, 339 were to postoffice box patrons, 383 by city carriers, 1024 by rural route, 1047 by special parcel post carrier in the city and 22 by special delivery.

heart is against Him. The two most hated characters in history are Judas Iscariot, who betrayed his Christ, and Benedict Arnold, who betrayed his country. They are very much alike. Both worked their way in the affections—one of Jesus and the other of George Washington, only to betray them."

Fanchon is a little elf-child, and the grand-daughter of a reputed witch, who suffers for her ancient relatives unpopular reputation and from her own mischievous nature, which constantly leads her into committing wild pranks. Fanchon falls in love with Landry, son of a rich merchant. It is a beautiful story and the acting is said to be superb.

THE MYSTERIOUS EAGLE.

On the broad top of a stony, rain gullied hill in middle Georgia there lies a very large eagle, concerning which conflicting stories are told. The one point that seems to be certain is that the Indians left the eagle as a legacy to the state. A hundred years from now it will probably be found lying on its back, with outspread wings and tail, even as it lies today. For it is made of quartz rocks so cunningly placed that it would require a pick in a strong man's hands to dislodge any one of them. The rocks lap and overlap in such a manner as to represent feathers. No cement holds them in position, and the stones vary in size, weighing from a half pound to three or four pounds. The image rests on a very firm foundation, for the stonework extends several feet into the ground.

Once, perhaps twice, treasure seeking vandals dug into the breast of the eagle, but the work must have proved too laborious, for the diggers gave up before they had reached the bottom layer of overlapping stones.

Rough but fairly accurate measurements of the bird show the length of the eagle from the middle of the tail to the head to be 102 feet and from tip to tip of outspread wings 120 feet. The length of the beak is ten feet, and the height of the body at the center of the breast is ten feet. The eagle lies with its head to the west.

Tradition does not give any satisfactory explanation of the age or the meaning of the great stone mound. It may have had religious significance to the red men who built it, and it may be the burial place of some great chief. It is one of the most mysterious and most interesting of prehistoric monuments in the United States.—Youth's Companion.

SHAKESPEARE WAS SHREWD.

Poet Was an Excellent Business Man, but Fond of Litigation.

One reason may be given for Shakespeare not publishing his plays, and we have reason to think it was of a kind to appeal to him. There was no copyright, and to publish the plays was to lessen their financial value to his company. This "gentle Will," this "sweetest Shakespeare," this "Swan of Avon," was an admirable man of business. If we had only the records of the law courts, in fact, we might not be able to think so very well of him. He had a keenness for litigation which he seems to have inherited from his father. As a taxpayer he was slow, if not positively evasive. He was apparently negligent of a debt contracted by his wife. Like many men of property, he evaded the restrictions against brewing malt liquor for his private use, being in his way a moonshiner.

Liberal in giving aid and lending money to his friends in need, he was strict in collecting debts. At about the time he wrote the final version of "Hamlet" he sued the village apothecary at Stratford to recover a small loan, and while he was at work on the world tragedy of "Antony and Cleopatra" he engaged in litigation that brought him in conflict with the village blacksmith, a state of affairs that Emerson relates with something akin to horror. He conspired with his father to secure from the conniving Herald's college a shady coat of arms and the right to subscribe himself "gent" and, while apparently not actively aiding an attempt to inclose Stratford common lands in defiance of the rights of the people, he at best remained strictly neutral toward the project.

Careless as he seems to have been as to his fame as a dramatist, he was in business by no means above current standards of conduct. One gathers that the chief interest of his later years was to live at ease as a gentleman and provide well for his family. It is related on pretty good authority that he died of "a fever" after "a merry meeting" at Stratford with his old friend Ben Jonson and the poet Drayton. But it is not unlikely that the true cause of his fever was not drink, but the insanitary condition of the street in which he lived.—John Corbin in New York Times.

SAVED HER FAMILY.

Climax to the Fearless Fight of a Plucky Spider.

Crossing a field one day, I came upon a large female spider of the hunter family carrying a round white sack of eggs half the size of a cherry attached to her spinnerets. Plucking a long stem of herd's grass, I detached the sack of eggs without bruising it. Instantly the spider turned and sprang at the grass stem, fighting and biting until she got to the sack, which she seized in her strong jaws and made off with it as fast as her rapid legs would carry her.

I laid the stem across her back and again took the sack away. She came on for it again, fighting more fiercely than before. Once more she seized it, once more I forced it from her jaws, while she sprang and bit at the grass stem with its head to the west.

The fight must have been on for two minutes when by a regrettable move on my part one of her legs was injured. She did not falter in her fight. On she rushed for the sack as fast as I pulled it away. The mother in her was rampant.

She would have fought for that sack, I believe, until she had not one of her eight legs to stand on had I been cruel enough to compel her. She did not come to this, for suddenly the sack burst, and out poured a myriad of tiny brown spiderlings.

Before I could think that mother had rushed among them and caused them to swarm upon her, covering her many deep, even to the outer joints of her long legs—so deep that I could not now have touched her with a needle except at the risk of crushing the young. I stood by and watched her slowly move off with her incrusting family to a place of safety.—Dallas Lore Sharp in Atlantic Monthly.

A Street in Moscow.

One street in Moscow, Miasnitskaya Ulitsa, is devoted almost entirely to stores selling machinery. The windows of these shops are large and of plate glass and display the various wares to good advantage. Many windows are devoted to large exhibits of various mechanisms, and at a certain hour in the afternoon these machines are, so far as possible, set in motion to give practical illustration of their workings.

A Tightwad.

"I understand that Mr. Pinchpenny has been operated on for appendicitis," remarked Miss Cayenne.

"Yes, it's the first time any one was known to get anything out of him."

"And even then they had to chloroform him to get that"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Once Is Enough.

"Jiggs says that if he ever marries again he's going to have 'obey' eliminated from the ceremony."

"What's the trouble?"

"No trouble, but he says that they can't fool him more than once."—Buffalo Express.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove it

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system.

They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without the painful or disagreeable effects of any kind.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know this by their olive color.

The cost of two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

For World's Peace.

After the war what? Most likely a defensive alliance for all the European states will be the outcome of this last great war among them. A certain section of these warring nations who trusted in the power of might to conquer and rule all the world, as well as the remaining ones who believed only less in the power of arms and armaments, will thus be led to see that the brotherhood of man is the basic principle of all permanent peace.

Awful as the present experience of Europe is, it has probably hastened by hundreds of years the universal acknowledgement and adoption of the principle that right, not might, is the best law for the welfare of elections. Then why prolong (one and a half year's carnage has been decisive of nothing) an unnecessary and useless conflict that can only result in the exhaustion of these self-same Powers and the century-long misery of the great masses of all these peoples? If a new Hague Conference were to sit continuously until the peoples of these countries compelled their rulers to submit their differences to its decisions, peace might come sooner than anyone would imagine. What greater role could America have than to be the first to take this decisive step and work for it incessantly until its fulfillment came?

"Back-Fire" is Feared.

When Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, goes out on the stump next fall to defend Democratic free trade policies, he is likely to be confronted with a statement made by him in the Senate on March 13th while discussing the army reorganization bill. Senator Chamberlain admitted that the American army costs more per man than any other army in the civilized world, and said:

"The American soldier, like to be better fed, better clothed, and better taken care of. Place the American laborer, demands our army on the basis of some other army and you would not have a corporal's guard in the United States."

"Like the American laborer," is the expression that gives away the whole Democratic free trade argument. When it is admitted that the American laborer demands to be better fed, better clothed, and better taken care of than the laborer of any other civilized country, it must also be admitted that the difference must be covered and guaranteed by protective tariff or the foreign laborer will seize the American market and, relatively speaking, there won't be a corporal's guard left in American mills. Senator Chamberlain talks like an advocate of protection of American labor but he voted for the Underwood tariff bill, which refused the demand of the American laborer to be "better fed, better clothed, and better taken care of." Will Democratic newspapers in Oregon give their candid opinion of the merits of the demand of American soldiers and American laborers?

A Fellow and His Lodge.

Some people are lodge crazy and join everything in sight. They are called "joiners." Others are pessimistic and can see no good in any lodge.

But there is much good to be derived from membership in any of the legitimate lodges that flourish everywhere, provided the lodge habit.

It creates a spirit of comradeship among the members that is seldom found elsewhere. If a member is in distress or difficulty, his lodge promptly comes to his relief and tides him over the rough places and into smoother waters. If he is sick, they cheer him with their presence, and watch at his bedside, and see that his family does not suffer during his incapacity. And in many ways they are a distinct benefit one to another.

The lodge is the symbol of the brotherhood of man, and its tenets are founded upon the Bible and advocate the elevation of the human race.

Another election and another Democrat giving way to a Republican successor. This time it is in Kansas City, Missouri, where a mayor was chosen. The Republican tendency of 1916 is by this time well-established. The Kansas City election is of particular importance, for it demonstrates the solid foundation on which Republicans are basing their claim to put Missouri in the Republican column this fall. The President may attempt to stem the tide by appointing a few more Missouri Democrats to fat offices, but the fact remains that Missouri, like the country at large, has set its face toward Republicanism this year.

Hartford, Connecticut, is also tired of Democratic rule and at its recent municipal election it supplanted a Democratic city government with a Republican. Object lessons of this kind are worth a hundred straw votes as proof of the political tendencies of this presidential year.

The fellow who identifies himself with some good lodge and lives up to its teachings will be a better man and citizen for the few hours he devotes to its meetings.

WIRELESS LINKS TWO OCEANS

Battleship in the Atlantic Talks to Another in Pacific.

Washington.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced that for the first time a wireless message had been successfully transmitted from a naval vessel in the Atlantic to one in the Pacific.

The experiment was successfully tried when the battleship Wyoming, off Cape Henry, Va., exchanged messages with Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, on board the cruiser San Diego in Guaymas harbor, west coast of Mexico. The messages were easily deciphered. By air line Guaymas is approximately 2,000 miles from Cape Henry.

ation that he might have been out in front without her seeing him.

Claude (Dumpl) Levi and Will Rainey, two of the men mentioned yesterday by Mrs. Anna Driver as having been customers of Clevenger testified for the defense, stating that they never at any time saw Mrs. Driver at the Clevenger home and denied ever buying any whiskey or beer from Clevenger or his wife. Levi admitted on cross-examination that many people were to be seen coming and going from the Clevenger home on Sundays.

Clevenger took the stand in his own defense late yesterday afternoon and denied each and every sale as brought out by the state, ten in all. He denied keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were sold and declared that all of the intoxicating liquors on his presence in the past two years consisted of two barrels of beer. One of these, he declared, was purchased for the benefit of his sister-in-law, whose husband died following the taking of carbolic acid and who was shot by Clevenger last fall.

The other barrel of beer that the defendant stated was in his home in the past two years was purchased by Al Simms and himself. He declared that Simms' wife objected to his drinking and that he kept it at the Clevenger home in order that she might not find it out. In explaining the beer that Columbus Glare, Charles Sweet and several others testified to buying at his home, Clevenger stated that the men brought the beer with them and drank it across the race.

Clevenger stated that his business consisted of gathering garbage and selling ice. The defense attempted to bring out the idea that he was too busy a man to have time to be a "bootegger." Clevenger offered a reason as to why most of the men who testified against him were "sore" at him. According to Clevenger he and Columbus Glare had a "falling out" over the rent of a small house and Greely Perkins and Clevenger had not been "dear" friends for many years.

The trouble between Clevenger and Perkins dated back to a time when Clevenger was tending bar for William Pea, his brother-in-law. On this occasion Perkins had two fights and the last time, Clevenger admitted that he almost killed him.

Clevenger was given a short but grueling cross-examination. He denied either selling to or in the presence of any of the state witnesses that testified against him.

The state used ten witnesses and each and every one testified to either buying intoxicating liquor of Clevenger or of having seen it sold by him.

Robert Johnson, colored, husband of the Mrs. Johnson, who was the star witness for the state yesterday, testified just before the state closed. He said he had frequently bought whiskey and beer of Clevenger and said that the last time was on Christmas day last year. He remembered this occasion as his brother from Indianapolis was visiting him and they went there and got a quart of whiskey. He said Clevenger sold it by the quart from $1 to $1.50. Beer, he said, sold for fifteen cents a bottle or two for a quarter.

At the close of the state's case the defense moved the court to strike out all testimony regarding beer because it was not shown to be intoxicating. This motion was overruled by Judge Sparks.

SEWING PARTY

At the home of Miss Valeta Walton, the three sections of the Immaculata Sodality met last evening for a sewing party and short business session. During the latter, it was decided to have the bazaar about the middle of May. Miss Beatrice Mack helped make the evening a pleasant one by singing and playing for the guests. Twenty-five girls enjoyed this informal evening together.

U. P. MISSIONARY

"Home Missions as a Healing Force" was the subject discussed this afternoon at the meeting of the Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church held with Mrs. S. H. Trabue. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. William Hoard and Miss Mary Fisher dealt in a very comprehensive way with "Christianity and Suffering, Hospitals and their Relation to the Church, and the Ministry and Healing in the United Presbyterian Church. A short business meeting and social hour followed while light refreshments were served by the hostess.

PSI IOTA XI

Miss Leah Fint was hostess for the members of Psi Iota Xi last evening at her home in North Perkins street. A excellent program featured the meeting, which included an interesting review of "Changing America," a book by Edward A. Ross, dealing with a number of important questions of the times. The book was divided into two parts and intensely interesting papers were read on it by Miss Laura Holden and Miss Harriet Vredenburg. A piano solo was played by Miss Mary Smith. The hostess served a delicious salad course during the later part of the meeting.

FORSAKEN ENKHUIZEN.

At One Time One of Holland's Richest and Greatest Cities.

Of all the so called "dead cities" of the Zuider Zee, Enkhuizen has most completely lost her former prosperity. One who wanders about her silent and empty streets can impossiblly realize that this shrunken and depopulated city was once one of the wealthiest and most important in Holland.

Enkhuizen dates from the ninth century or even earlier. In the zenith of its greatness, the seventeenth century, it possessed 40,000 inhabitants and a fishing fleet of 400 boats engaged in the herring trade. Enkhuizen sailors were well known for their courage and seafaring ability.

But less than a hundred years later the harbor of Enkhuizen was silting up, and her commerce had already declined. Since then whole streets have been pulled down, as the population diminished, for only a few thousand inhabitants remain. But the ancient gate, the Dromedaris, that guards its now empty harbor still stands, a monument of the past greatness of Enkhuizen.

The noble Wester kerk is built of the deep red, narrow bricks often used in Netherlands architecture. In its choir are some sixteenth century wood carvings. Its unlovely wooden belfry is detached, but connected with the church by a minute but attractive old house. The small, old, red tiled houses, each with a different facade, form an irregular line that is singularly charming. The streets of the little town are very quiet and empty. Their stillness is almost unbroken except by some beautiful chimes.—Argonaut.

Going to Paint this Year?

Most everyone has more or less painting to do in the Spring. Nothing pays a larger dividend on your investment. A well painted house or barn does not cost so much to keep in repair as a neglected one and besides it adds much to the value and appearance of the surroundings.

But you must use GOOD Paint to secure these results. Not one that will chalk or scale off in a short time after applying. Only the purest and best of lead, zinc and oil are used in the manufacture of BURDSAL'S STEAMBOAT PAINTS. When using them you are assured of the maximum of durability and beauty. Besides their covering properties make them far more economical to use than many others which are sold at a higher price.

For interior use they can be had in endless variety, a paint, stain or color for any purpose desired. Whatever you may need, we have it.

FOUR DOCTORS DISAGREED

Pains Disappeared After Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wilmington, Del.—"I was suffering from a terrible backache and pains in my side, with bearing down pains and was very nervous. I was always tired, always drowsy, never could get enough sleep and could not eat. I had four doctors and each told me something different. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I got good results and I now feel better than I have felt for years and I am gaining in weight. I can gladly recommend it to all women."—Mrs. GEORGE W. SENOLD, 1611 West 4th Street, Wilmington, Del.

Backache and bearing down pains are danger signals which every woman should heed. Remove the cause of these aches and pains by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old root and herb medicine. Thousands of women have testified to its virtues. For forty years it has been making women strong, curing backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pain.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., confidential, Lynn, Mass.

Show Committee and Freshmen Agriculture Students Extend Themselves For Event

CLASSES OF MANY KINDS

Silver Cup is Offered as Trophy to High School Making the Best Exhibit.

The members of the Purdue Egg Show committee as well as a large number of the Freshman Agricultural students are putting forth their best efforts in an attempt to stage the biggest and best exhibition of eggs ever seen at Purdue. Anyone acquainted with Purdue's former shows knows that this is a big undertaking. The dates this year are May 10, 11 and 12.

There will be classes for farmers, fanciers, commercial poultrymen, high schools, Boys' and Girls' clubs and Agricultural Experiment Stations. If sufficient interest is manifested to warrant such a step, there will also be an opportunity for the first time, for poultry packers and shippers to exhibit.

A great amount of effort is being expended to make the Experiment Station Class and the High School Class the special features of this show. Letters of advertisements have been sent to every Experiment Station in the United States and to some in Canada, with the splendid result that already many have promised entries. From among these there are entries from as far west as California and as far east as Massachusetts, from Canada on the north to Mississippi on the south.

To arouse interest in the High School class, a letter has been sent to every high school in Indiana, urging that entries be sent in. Where possible it is highly desirable that the high school hold a local egg show and then send the winning exhibits to Purdue to compete with others from all over the state. This is an unusual opportunity for rural high schools to do splendid work in their local communities. The premiums awarded the winner in this class is a handsome silver cup which is to be competed for annually. This cup is held at present by the Jefferson High School of LaFayette.

The educational value of the show will be enhanced by various educational exhibits and demonstrations on the best methods of sorting and packing eggs.

The merchants and business men of Lafayette are lending their hearty support to the show, and, whatever degree of success may be attained will be due in a large measure to them.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR MEETING

Evansville Business Men Await Signal From Washington

(By United Press) Evansville, Ind., April 19.—Evansville business men are awaiting a signal that will send them in swarms to Washington. The signal will come when the fight for the location of the proposed $11,000,000 government armor-plate factory in Evansville reaches a climax. One hundred local men will make the trip and they propose by demonstrations and an effective lobby to make Evansville's place on the map more secure.

This is Comment of Board of State Charities Concerning Poor Asylum Here.

SAYS JAIL IS WELL MANAGED

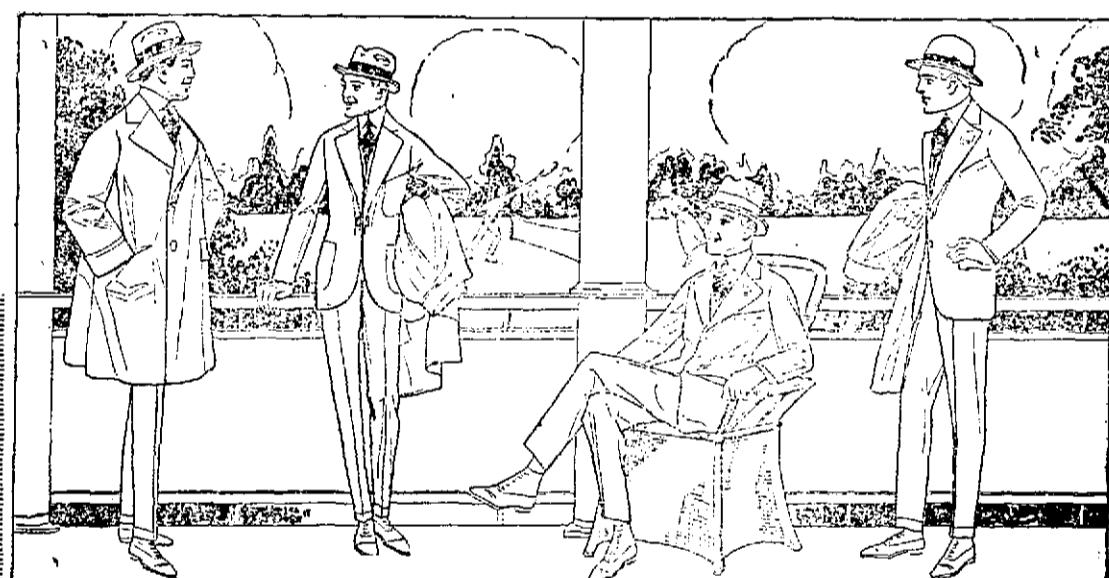

The Indiana Bulletin of Charities and Corrections and the twenty-sixth annual report of the Board of State Charities of Indiana have been received here. The Indiana bulletin makes no report on a visit to the Rush county jail and poor asylum but both institutions are mentioned in the annual report of the state board.

The report relates the circumstance about the proposed erection of the new poor asylum, recalling that the county council refused to appropriate the money. It says that "The interior appearance of the Rush county jail was greatly improved by being painted white. It is strong and in the most part well managed." Concerning the asylum it says:

Early in the year the Rush county commissioners considered the erection of a new institution. Plans were prepared and submitted to this Board but the county council declined to make the necessary appropriation at that time. This county is in urgent need of better conditions and the present buildings are not worth extensive improvements. In January a one-room frame cottage was destroyed by fire and one of the sick inmates was burned to death in it.

Usual "Birdie" And Similar Devices Lose Their Place In The Modern Studio

One of today's most interesting fads, which has in reality become so established that it has almost ceased to be a fad, is the use of the camera in its varied ways. The new styles of these, each offering a new convenience, has been an inspiration for this and yet, too many cast aside these good little reminders of the days gone by for some newer diversion. But the individual who is tenacious in searching out the ever new wonders of the art finds in amateur photography field of interest undreamed of by the non-resident faddist.

The extent of development which can be reached by the careful art student is well exemplified by the careful art student is well exemplified by the work of Miss Euphemia C. Lewis, who early left the soap shop stage and has gone in for art in portraiture. After having a studio in Terre Haute and being for six years the portrait photographer for the Holland Studio in Indianapolis, she has opened a studio at 122 West Second street.

Naturalness is the key note for the new photographs. In order to attain this, Miss Lewis suggests: "If the photographer will study carefully for a time applicants who are difficult subjects, some charming or characteristic expression or pose may be frequently discovered which will save the portrait from being commonplace. Photographic portraiture, at its best, seeks to record the inner life as well as the outward appearance. The technique of photography is becoming more and more flexible every day and barring color, it has a peculiar solidity of dark tints, a richness of tonal gradations and a faculty to lose form in its background and environment, which compares favorably with other graphic arts."

No longer is it compulsory for a photograph to be matter-of-fact or bold in appearance. The good photographer is an appreciator of character and facial expression and at the same time endowed with good taste, pictorial insight and that peculiar patience which the practice of photography demands, with the result that the subject reflect each human expression and the portrait, instead of depicting mere outlines of form and feature, flawless or faulty as nature designed, now means an accurate translation of the thoughts of the photographer about his subject.

Each tiny line that the pencil of character has etched about the eyes and month and on the brow, instead of being carefully eliminated in the retouching of the negative is now but softened and refined so that the result is a straightforward and sympathetic study of character.

To the inexperienced, the vagaries of the portrait lens are ever a surprise. One instance is cited in which a woman, a little more handsome than usual, and with a skin apparently perfect to the naked eye was shown on the negative to have numerous little blotches all over her face. The reason did not manifest itself for a few days when the subject became a victim of smallpox. As yet no board of health has contemplated photography as a preventative of smallpox, possibly because it would be rather an expensive method.

The photographer of today often goes to the home of the subjects, who have a fancy for being posed in familiar every day surroundings. Each of pose and expression resulting in prettiness and individuality mark the portraits of today. Children are especially attractive subjects for the new type of photography. It has been said that passionate love of children, intimate knowledge of their little ways and a sympathetic personality, are all necessary factors in the portrayal of child life.

The usual "birdie" to which the attention of the infant is directed, the red sled, the sleigh bells and other well known insignia of childhood distraction have lost their place in the modern studio, and instead more natural and more tactful means of securing a characteristic expression on the childish face are used.

Simplicity figures in the best portraits of today. The fewer objects in the picture, the better the result. Any one of taste and discernment will immediately be aware that a well posed picture frequently loses a part of its charm by rigid hard lines of its surroundings. It is much more pleasant to allow the eye to wander off indefinitely. While vignetting is acknowledged to be a difficult process, the results are more than worthy of the effort. In many instances a really indifferent picture is brought out wonderfully by this method.

A writer of note on photographic subjects furnished an interesting little anecdote in proof that a little learning in this line may not be a dangerous thing but rather helpful. On an extended trip taken in the interest of his art, he had with him two blocks, not photographic. While they were, in his words, perfectly good books which he would not blush to show any one, still he preferred most of his friends never to see them and was at a loss to know how to carry them around.

If they were hidden away, some one must surely come upon them, and just as surely would it be wrong person. He wrapped them neatly in wrapping paper and wrote on either side: "Open only in ruby light." He had left them around in a careless way for a full year at the time of writing and their contents were still safe. "Open only by ruby light" worked like magic.

Obituary

Abel Walker was born in Mass., Jan. 1st, 1858 and departed this life April 10, 1916, aged 58 years, 3 months and 10 days.

He was married to Frances E. Palmer, Sept. 11, 1884. To this union was born six children, the eldest Russell, dying in infancy. The surviving children are Mrs. Ona Brown, Mrs. Bessie Borem, Mrs. Carrie Barnes and Herbert and Elsie Walker.

Nine grandchildren and two sisters, beside the wife are left to mourn the loss of this loved one.

On Dec. 2, 1885 he joined the M. E. E. church at Wiley Chapel and was baptized Dec. 20, 1885.

Though being afflicted he was a very industrious man and worked up to within a few days of his death.

He loved his family, neighbors and friends.

God is calling us O Christians.

Do we heed the call today?

Are we eager for his service?

So we labor, watch and pray;

May our brother's life enthuse us.

And the mantle, he let fall

Rest not only on the workers

But on Christians, one and all.

IMPROVEMENT RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the contract has been let for the improvement of North Perkins street from the north side of Eleventh street to the south side of the alley on the north side of Stewart and Tompkins; in addition, by paving same with concrete, and,

WHEREAS, said streets are now crossed by service pipes connecting with lots abutting upon said streets with the water mains, gas mains and the sanitary sewer system of said City, and,

WHEREAS, many of said service pipes are in need of repair, and,

WHEREAS, some of the lots and parts of lots abutting upon said streets have no service connecting said lots with said water mains, gas mains or said sewer system.

Therefore, Resolved by the common council of the City of Rushville, Indiana, that it is deemed necessary to have all service pipes connection with said water mains, gas mains and said sewer system inspected and where needed to have same repaired, and that new service pipe connections shall be made with said water mains, gas mains or said sewer to have taps made and such service pipes brought within the curb line along said streets and the same is now ordered done.

All such sewer connections shall be made under the supervision of and to the satisfaction of the Sewer Committee and said committee and the Street Commission. All such new or repair connections for water and gas shall be made under the supervision of and to the satisfaction of the superintendent for the Water & Light Plant and the water and light committee of the said common council. Said committee and said officers shall proceed at once to designate where all such service pipes and sewer connections shall be made, and shall make application to the regular or "special" meeting of the common council. The common council shall have the right to change or modify the said report before its adoption. After the report is adopted the common council shall give ten days' notice by one publication in a newspaper published in said City and place where property owned affected by said resolution may be found, and said common council and object to such proposed improvement so to comply with the most practical manner of making the same. After such hearing and modifications, if any, the said common council shall order such connections made, and the said property owners shall have ten days from the date of publication of said resolution to make such connections. If any property owner fails to make such connections within the time specified, the common council shall have the right to require him to do so at his own expense. The cost of making such improvements by said property owner shall be paid by said common council and shall be certified by the City Clerk to the City Treasurer of said City, who shall charge the same against said property as other liens for street and sewer assessments are made, and such amount and interest, together with all the costs of collecting the same, shall remain liens against the property so far as the law permits. In case of non-payment of such amounts, the common council shall have the right to sue for the same in any court of competent jurisdiction at any time after the expiration of said period of time. In case of such suit, the common council of said city has fixed Tuesday the 23rd day of May, 1916, as a date upon which a hearing may be heard by persons interested in or affected by said described public improvement and on said day at 7:30 o'clock p. m., said common council will meet at the council chamber in said city of Rushville for the purpose of hearing and considering any representations which may have been filed, or which may be presented, and will hear all persons interested, or whose property is affected by said proposed improvements, and will decide whether the benefits that will accrue to the property, abutting and adjacent to the proposed improvements, and to said city, will be equal to or exceed the estimated cost of the proposed improvements, as estimated by the city engineer.

Provided that any of the said property owners may have the option of paying for said improvements in the equal installments as other street and sewer assessments are made under the provisions of the act of the General Assembly of 1905, and amendment thereto.

The property owner shall signify his desire to accept such option and shall file his waiver within thirty days after such costs are approved by said common council.

PREPARING TO PAVE STREET

City Council Passes Resolution Ordering All Mains to be Extended to Curb

TO IMPROVE PERKINS STREET

City Takes Steps to Recover $65

Tied up in Costs in Damage

Suit Which it Won

The final steps toward paving North Perkins street in the Stewart and Tompkins addition was taken last night when the city council passed a resolution ordering all sewer, water and gas mains to be extended to the curb line. The resolution is similar to those passed preliminary to the paving of all streets in the city.

The contract for the paving of Perkins street was let late last fall and the contractor is about ready to start work. In order to have the street in shape for the paving the city believed that the resolution was necessary. It is provided that in cases where the property owner does not make the necessary sewer, water and gas taps, the city will do the work and tax it against property. May 2 was the time set for hearing remonstrances. The Ohio Construction company has the contract for the street.

A petition was presented to the council calling for curb and gutters in Maple street from Eighth street to Tenth street. It was referred to the street and alley committee.

The old Herkless-Keller damage suit bobbed up again last night when the city attorney was instructed to file a motion in the supreme court to retax the costs and set aside the city's part. Herkless secured a judgment against the Julius Keller Construction company and the City of Rushville for $2,100 in the circuit court and the case was reversed by the appellate court and sent back here for retrial. The time has passed for the filing of a motion for a new trial and as the appellate court held the city was not responsible the present action was taken by the city in order to recover the $65 tied up in the costs. The Kellers are now bankrupt and as Herkless cannot recover from the city there was no need of trying it again.

The report of the city treasurer for the month of March was found correct by the finance committee and placed on file.

The case and contract entered into between the city and Patrick Carroll was approved and was ordered filed in the recorder's office. The city entered into a contract with Carroll in order to run some water mains across his property.
